President's Message

Where has the year gone? It's already time for our November general meeting, and soon the holiday season will be upon us. And that means it is also time to renew your membership for 2014. Please complete the renewal form in this newsletter and send it with your check to Treasurer Bob Joyce before the end of the year. Affiliation fees for FFI have increased for 2014, and accordingly our dues have increased as well but are still a great value.

Our ambassadors to Greater Yalta, Crimea, and Rostov-on-Don, Russia have returned from our club international outbound exchange and will share their perceptions with you at our meeting 11/7. Four members of our club participated in the Alberta Canada global themed exchange "Prairies to the Rockies" in August, and Phill Price will do a presentation on that exchange too. The presentations promise to be diverse and quite interesting, and I hope to see you in attendance in great numbers.

A small group of ambassadors from La Libertad club of Trujillo, Peru will arrive November 7, a week earlier than originally expected, and unfortunately EDs Mary and Walt Prouty are delayed in their return to Florida from Indiana by medical testing. We certainly hope they can be here in time to enjoy our Peruvian ambassadors. Heartfelt thanks to Judy and Bob Joyce who have volunteered as Acting EDs and to the members of the host committee who have really stepped up to the plate to organize the details of the exchange. Please contact the Joyces if you would like to volunteer to help with the exchange in any way.

2014 will certainly be a very busy and stimulating year for our club. Each exchange provides a unique opportunity to create friendships across barriers of distance, and language, and culture, and I urge all of you to take advantage of these multiple opportunities and get involved. 25 outstanding ambassadors for our club's first global themed inbound exchange, Experience the Arts of Greater Sarasota, will arrive January 31. ED Gloria Grenier and her committee are counting on everyone's help in home hosting, day hosting, and dinner hosting for this exciting event. ED Mary

McClendon and her mentor Bonnie Frey are putting together a host committee and plans for an international inbound exchange from Hamburg, Germany March 24-31.

Our international outbound exchange for next year will be a cooperative one with the Greater Orlando club. Central Coast, Australia, and Whangarei, New Zealand will host us in October 2014 before the World Conference in Auckland, and touring in both countries will be offered. In April ED Don Nicholson will lead a domestic exchange to Albuquerque NM, and Sarasota will host ambassadors from Albuquerque in a reciprocal visit in November.

Thank you to those of you who completed our ballot of international outbound exchange destinations for 2015. Your votes have been tallied, our requests have been submitted, FFI will send our exchange matches by the end of January, and a new round of opportunities to gain a new way of looking at things will begin.

Judi

One's destination is never a place, but rather a new way of looking at things.

REPORT OF Russia and Ukraine Exchange

Ten Sarasota and six Austin Ambassadors returned from our exchange to Rostov-on-Don, Russia and Yalta, Ukraine on Oct. 13th. This was a most eventful experience, starting with 6 of our ambassadors exiting the airport in Moscow in error. Thank you to the foresight of the agent who obtained our Russian visas and suggested we get duplicate entry visas, all could continue to Kyiv for our three-day tour and then continue to Rostov-on-Don. At our hotel we met the other 6 ambassadors from Austin at our hotel who had arrived a couple of hours earlier. Kyiv is an interesting and beautiful city with many gold domed churches, the blue River Dnipro and beautiful green parks. Many ancient churches have been restored to their original glory after being destroyed or converted to other uses during the time of Russian control. Our tour guide was a lovely young lady who took us to visit many sights, such as St. Sophia's Church, The Kyiv Pecherska Lavra, St. Michael's Church and Museum of Historical Treasures of Ukraine. Also, there was time to explore other museums, the market and some shopping on our own. Some of us had a hard time keeping up with our gloves. Who wears gloves in Florida?

We then flew to Rostov-on-Don where we were met at the airport by our smiling home hosts. The weather in Rostov was very rainy and cold, but our hosts were all filled with warmth. Took a boat ride on the Don River to visit a Cossack Festival in Starocherkassk where we enjoyed the dancers. We visited Azov historical, archeological museum where we were amazed to learn of the large animals that roamed the area in ancient times. The birth place of Chekhov was visited in Taganrog. Other locations were visited, but one thing that amazed all of us was the traffic - Rostov is of city of 1.6 million people. As the number of cars has greatly increased over the past ten years, the infrastructure has not been maintained for the increased traffic. Our farewell dinner was a real highlight to give us a royal "send-off". There were tables laden with food, wine, brandy and vodka, live music and dancing, plus a large floor show of entertainers-acrobats, bubble blower, showgirl & belly dancers, etc.

On Saturday evening, we departed by an overnight train to Simferopol, Ukraine - an experience! Boarding the train with many suitcases plus picnic bags of food supplied by our hosts, getting into our little compartments, storing all away for the night (most of us were 4 to a compartment) proved to be a real struggle. Then we had the border crossings. Thanks to Judi who was able to speak Russian we managed to deal with 2 sets of border crossing agents. They wondered why 16 elderly Americans were on the train, what Friendship Force was, etc. Finally, Judi convinced them we were only tourists on holiday!

We were met by Pavel, our ED from Yalta, in Simferopol, but not without another experience. As we were maneuvering our suitcases across a parking lot to assemble all, one of the many buses sideswiped Nancy Rehbock and she went face down on the pavement. An ambulance was called and other ambassadors assembled in MacDonal'd's for coffee. Nancy & Dick in ambulance, Pavel & I following in his car went to the emergency room, X-rays were taken, face cleaned & bandaged and we returned to the rest of our group.

Pavel had our group with all suitcases taking a public bus for an hour's ride through the mountains to Yalta - an experience of traveling the local way. I rode with Pavel and the Rehbocks - a beautiful ride, sometimes fresh snow could be viewed.

This was the first attempt in forming a club in the Yalta Region. Pavel thought they had found home hosts for all except six people. However, when we arrived home hosts were only available for 2 people. As Pavel was the former mayor of Alupka, a friend of his had offered to provide us rooms in a small hotel that he is gradually remodeling. We were in rooms for 2, 3 or 4 persons. However, all were clean and had adequate heat, hot water and a refrigerator. Steps were very old and in various needs of repair, but we managed. Rooms were only about $15 per night per person. We ate at a restaurant across the plaza. Pavel gave me a card for a 30% discount, so food was inexpensive and good. Usually, we were the only people in the restaurant for breakfast and dinner. Sure the staff is talking about the crazy Americans. Streets were narrow and winding as the mountains go nearly to the sea as in many of the Mediterranean villages. I thought of the movie, "Mama Mia" where Meryl Streep was continually climbing over rocks. Pavel came each day, picking up the two ladies who were home hosted along the way. He had hired a bus to take us to visit the many sights, Alupka Palace and Museum, Livadia Palace where Roosevelt, Churchill, and Stalin met for the 1945 Yalta Conference, to Sevastopol to visit a panorama of the Crimean War and one of World War II, the Resurrection Church which sits high on a mountain top above the town of Foros and overlooking the Black Sea, a monastery built into the mountainside and many other sights. The whole costal area is just one breath-taking view after another, with the rugged mountains, blue sea, and trees turning to golden fall colors. This was a different week due to the people he had located to home host who then declined, but we will all look at it as a memorable experience. Pavel is a very nice young gentleman - and a brave one - with limited knowledge of the English language, but did the best he could for us. Thank you again to Judi for her translation. I believe he may work with a younger club in Kyiv for some possible joint exchanges and possibly with some younger European Clubs. I do wish him the best in getting a Friendship Force Club in the Yalta Region!

To our newer members: this was NOT a typical exchange!
